

Stassen Reports On Disarm Crisis

Soviet Still 'Seriously Negotiating'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Stassen made a first-hand report to President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles Friday on the East-West disarmament crisis at London.

He is understood to have taken a hopeful line and insisted that in spite of heavy attacks on Western proposals the Soviet Union is still "seriously negotiating."

Stassen and Dulles met with the President for 35 minutes soon after the U. S. disarmament negotiator landed here at the end of an overnight flight from Britain. Stassen, after the White House session, would say only that Dulles might have some statement to make later.

Still Hopeful
But on arrival at National Airport here he took occasion to emphasize that he continues to have real hope of progress toward an East-West disarmament agreement, although he remarked that, "No one should feel that any agreement is just around the corner."

'Closer Together'
He described the two sides as being "now closer together" than at any time in the last 12 years on measures for the reduction and control of armaments.

He also asserted that a Western package plan for ending the nuclear arms race and creating a warning system against surprise attack as well as cutting military forces is "now being considered by the Soviet Union."

Shop Contrast
On this point his position contrasted sharply with the impression of Washington officials after Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin had almost contemptuously dismissed the Western proposals within minutes after their formal presentation to him Thursday.

Stassen told reporters he plans to leave here Monday in time to reach London for another meeting of the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Eisenhower Leaves Hospital, Feels Pretty Good

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Arm in arm with the President, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower left Walter Reed Army Hospital Friday, reporting she felt "pretty good."

Eisenhower drove from the White House to the medical center in northwest Washington in the early afternoon to pick up the first Lady 25 days after she was admitted for a hysterectomy, an operation for removal of the uterus.

The two-hour operation was performed Aug. 6, the day after she arrived at Walter Reed.

Mrs. Eisenhower walked rather slowly and cautiously to the limousine, which took her and the President back to the White House.

"I feel pretty good," she said in answer to questions called out by reporters.

Mrs. Eisenhower plans to accompany the President to Newport, R. I., next week for a vacation.

U.S. Fires Missile Of Intermediate Range Type, Possibly 'Thor'

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — An intermediate range type missile believed to be the Air Force Thor was fired from the Cape Canaveral missile test center shortly after 3 p.m. Friday.

It was the second test firing this week. The Army Jupiter was fired Tuesday.

If the missile fired Friday were the Thor, it probably would be the first successful launching of the Air Force projectile.

Russia Names Molotov Envoy To Mongolia

LONDON, (Saturday) (AP) — The Russians announced Saturday that V. M. Molotov, the fallen former premier - foreign minister, has been named Soviet ambassador to Outer Mongolia.

That country of copper - hued, tent - dwelling horsemen was the first satellite roped into the Soviet empire.

As the Mongolian People's Republic, its capital is Ulan Bator (Red Hero). Its population is over one million people.

There Molotov will be about 3,000 miles from the Kremlin and not many hundreds of miles away from Georgi Malenkov, another ex-premier who fell from power in Moscow with him last month under accusations of anti-party activity.

Malenkov recently was named head of power station of Kazakhstan in remote Soviet Central Asia west of Mongolia.

Molotov's new job, a big come down from the exalted posts he held as Stalin's iron man during World War II and after, was announced in a deadpan Tass agency statement broadcast by Moscow radio.

It said: "The U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet parliament Presidium has appointed V. M. Molotov as U.S.S.R. ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the Mongolian People's Republic."

Almost $5 Billion Cut From Foreign Aid Funds Ike Requested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Official figures published by the House Appropriations Committee showed Friday that Congress trimmed $4,900,000,000 from President Eisenhower's request for new funds this year.

The final tabulation covered 16 separate bills appropriating $59,100,000,000 to finance the operations of 24 federal agencies and programs for the fiscal year that began July 1.

In addition to the direct new appropriations, Congress approved an estimated eight billion dollars in permanent or indefinite allotments, mainly for such variable costs as interest on the national debt.

In his annual budget message to Congress last January, Eisenhower said he planned to ask for new appropriations totaling $73,300,000,000. In subsequent money bills, however, he scaled that figure down by $1,300,000,000.

Some Senate leaders arrived at different sets of figures by using different bookkeeping approaches. Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, calculated for example that the total congressional cuts in Eisenhower's $73,300,000,000 January budget request was 6 1/2 billion dollars. Byrd said Eisenhower himself had scaled down his original requests by $2,200,000,000.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic floor leader, came up with $5,927,485,584 as representing the total reductions made by Congress in the President's budget requests.

The House Appropriations Committee, which keeps a running score on all money bills from the time they reach Congress until they are signed by the President listed initial House cuts in Eisenhower requests for new appropriations at $5,400,000,000 in round figures. It listed Senate cuts totaling $3,700,000,000.

These differences were adjusted in Senate-House conferences, the committee said, with a final reduction figure of $4,900,000,000.

'Had Urge To Kill' Youth, 14, Says In Knife Slaying

LOMBARD, Ill. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy told police Friday he stabbed a schoolmate's father to death because "I suddenly had an urge to kill."

The youth, Clyde Walker, was trapped beneath the body of the victim, Arthur Capitanielli, 38, assistant administrator of Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago.

William Guild, DuPage County state's attorney, said the boy gave this account of the slaying in a bedroom of the Capitanielli home.

After attending a dance at which Capitanielli's daughter, Consuela, 13, was a guest, young Walker went home. Later, he walked some 2 1/2 miles from his home to that of the Capitanielli family.

It began to rain, and Walker took shelter on the front porch. Finding the front door unlocked, he entered the house and walked to the bedroom where Capitanielli was asleep. Aroused, the boy said, Capitanielli "hollered for help," and Walker stabbed him in the heart with a 3 1/2-inch blade of his switch knife.

In the struggle, the two fell to the floor between twin beds. Young Walker was pinned beneath the man's body and unable to escape.

Capitanielli's son, Michael, 7, who was sleeping in one of the twin beds, was aroused by the struggle, and called his mother, who telephoned police.

Could said the boy would be taken before a police magistrate in Lombard Saturday on a charge of murder.

Search For Clues To Judy's Killer At Lake's Edge

CHICAGO (AP)—An ax, a towel and a rag, all bearing stains police said might be blood, were turned up Friday as 1,400 searchers sought leads in the dismemberment slaying of 15-year-old Judith Mae Andersen.

How important the finds might be was uncertain. The articles were picked up at the edge of Lake Michigan about one block south of the Montrose Harbor entrance where the girl's butchered body was found last week.

Other possible new clues were a water-soaked street guide, notebook and traces of limestone in one of the containers which held the victim's body.

The notebook, measuring 3 by 5 inches, was recovered from Lake Michigan at the mouth of Montrose Harbor, near where the girl's body was found in two oil containers last week.

Police declined comment on reports that the name "Judith May" (sic) was written in the booklet. It was taken to the crime laboratory.

The traces of limestone were found inside of a five-gallon can which was used to dispose of the victim's head and hands. Police said the finding indicated that the can had been used to hold fertilizer, plaster, whitewash or cement.

Findings of the chemical, described as calcium silicate phosphate, was reported by Lt. John Ascher, head of the police crime laboratory. Ascher said the substance could be of considerable help in investigation of the slaying.

Southern Democrats Furious At Thurmond For His Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern Democrats, furious with South Carolina's Sen. Thurmond for breaking ranks to filibuster against the compromise civil rights bill, Friday gave Sen. Russell of Georgia the major credit for the fight against a stronger measure.

"The people of the South could not have had leadership greater and more devoted," Sen. Hill (D-Ala.) said of Russell.

Russell himself said the Dixie bloc had succeeded in pulling the fangs of legislation which, in its original form, could have brought about "the social intermingling of the races from the kindergarten to the grave" and destroyed southern civilization "beyond the hope of redemption."

Even as it is, Russell said, "the Southern people are in for difficult times." He predicted that under the voting rights section of the bill the attorney general would make "political forays" into the South. And he said Vice President Nixon would act as an agent for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People in pressing for the bill's enforcement.

Sen. Long (D-La.) said Russell's strategy reflected "the almost unanimous views of Southern senators." Long said he wanted the record to show that he personally raised the issue of a filibuster with the Southern bloc when the compromise civil rights bill came to the Senate from the House.

"When I raised the issue, the junior senator from South Carolina—Thurmond—advised me, in the presence of other senators, that that would be the worst mistake we could make," Long said.

School Lays Down Rules Of Dress For Teen-Agers

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Junior high school teen-agers were forbidden Friday to wear peculiar hairdos or extreme dresses to classes when school resumes Tuesday.

W. R. McIntosh, school superintendent, sent parents a list of things teen-agers may not wear or do.

"Good taste in dress is an important part of wholesome classroom environment," he said in the letter signed by four principals. Girls' dresses must be discreet," it said.

Girls may not wear curlers or head scarves. Boys cannot have ducktail haircuts. Boys must wear something over their T-shirts and must not open shirts below the second button.

Hair dye or bleach may not be used for unusual effects. Trousers must be belted firmly around the waist, not below the hipbones.

Mussolini's Widow Gets Body For Burial; Was Hidden In Monastery For 11 Years

PREDAPPIO, Italy (AP) — The Italian government returned Benito Mussolini's body to his weeping black-clad widow Friday.

For 11 years it had been hidden in a crate in a rural Capuchin monastery at Cerro Maggiore, 15 miles northwest of Milan, to foil diehard Fascists who tried to seize the corpse of their leader.

Only two priests knew what was in the crate hidden amid sacred parchments behind the altar of a small chapel in the monastery.

Father Carlo, a superior of the Capuchin order who brought the remains here, said the chief of the Milan police brought the zinc-lined crate to the monastery June 25, 1946, after Idelfonso Cardinal Schuster, archbishop of Milan, ordered that the monks guard it.

Only Father Romano, another superior, knew what was in the crate, Father Carlo said.

Father Celato, a monk who examined the body here, said it was decomposed.

Part of Mussolini's brain, kept in a separate jar, was also brought here with the body. Other pieces of the brain had been turned over to scientists previously for study.

The government acceded to the widow's repeated requests for Mussolini's burial in the family tomb here because the political climate

Kills, Strands Much Of Ike's Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress adjourned at 4:22 p.m. Friday with a final flourish of oratory, action and economy.

House and Senate quit in quick succession with little of the usual hi-jinks and hilarity. Members rushed for plane and train, heading home or off on official junkets.

Behind them they left administration defeats, spaced between some real victories, standing out like mileposts along the long, twisting legislative road of the first session of the 85th Congress.

It was a session which chopped billions from appropriations in a sustained economy campaign. It adopted an Eisenhower Doctrine for the Middle East. It put the United States into an International Atomic Energy Agency. It enacted the first civil rights bill in 82 years.

Yet much of President Eisenhower's legislative program—aid for schools, health and flood insurance, a postal rate increase, minimum wage extension—was killed or left stranded.

'Disappointing'
All in all, the final results gave Eisenhower little reason for modifying his opinion that the record is "tremendously disappointing."

Some members of his own party have said he would have fared better had he fought harder for what he wanted. But the item for which he got in his heaviest licks, the foreign aid program, still was hobbled in scope and funds.

On the word of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, President Eisenhower was glad to have Congress quit. Eisenhower now can be on the way to a Newport, R.I., vacation in a few days.

Opposing Views
According to political script, top Democrats hailed the legislative record as one of impressive achievement; Republicans spoke of it in four tones.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, called it one of Congress' most fruitful sessions. Sen. Johnson said the session had acted responsibly, courageously and constructively and "the President need not be disappointed."

By Johnson's count, Eisenhower made 155 recommendations to Congress, more than half were passed and others are ready for passage when members come back to work next January.

Hoffa's Huffa And Puffa

James Hoffa, vice president of the powerful Teamsters Union, evidently was strongly determined to make a better public impression than did other Teamster officials under fire from the Senate committee investigating racketeers.

But it is now fair to say that in this effort he failed.

When Hoffa began his appearances before the McClellan committee in Washington, he was confident to the point of cockiness. He gave friendly, direct answers to a long series of questions which were not without embarrassment for him.

For instance, he had to acknowledge he had been arrested 17 times, though convicted only three for minor offenses. He conceded, too, that he had repaid only $70,000 of $120,000 borrowed interest-free from union officials, Teamster locals and various businessmen.

But Hoffa's self-assurance began to drain away when the committee turned to accounts of his dealings with Johnny Dio of New York, known racketeer and convicted extortionist.

Hoffa admitted to knowing Dio. But as the committee played recorded transcripts of various tapped telephone conversations between Hoffa and Dio, the Teamster vice president found himself afflicted with sudden, acute loss of memory.

Though these conversations dealt with specific matters relating to union manipulation, and some were recorded only two months ago, Hoffa professed to the committee that hearing them played back gave him not the slightest inkling what was under discussion.

The committee found this so incredible that it is turning over Hoffa's testimony to the Justice department for possible prosecution on perjury charges.

The chances are that most Americans will be equally unbelieving.

They are likely to conclude that Hoffa, without taking the Fifth amendment, tried to get the same result. While never quite striking an uncooperative attitude, he told the committee nothing of his links with Dio.

To achieve this great blank, he pleaded faulty memory 111 times one day and almost as many the following day.

If this was not contrived amnesia, then Hoffa would seem to have the weakest memory of any public figure in recent decades. Is this the man the Teamsters intend to elect their president next month?

One wonders how he will be able to remember where his office is.

Courageous Or Foolhardy

Whatever harsh things have been said of Frenchmen in this troubled age, no one accuses them of not knowing how to make their lives pleasurable.

The French are rightly fabled for their understanding of the proper care of the stomach through the administering of good food and drink. As one U.S. observer said not long ago:

"If you like to eat, you will find Paris literally awash with the good things."

In this setting, French Finance

Minister Gaillard, seeking to combat inflation, now dares to suggest a national economy menu comprising various low-cost items.

Gaillard is a brave man. If he makes any headway with this one, he obviously will be marked for higher things, like the premiership.

But with a photo-montage of bake shops, sidewalk cafes and fancy restaurants passing before the eyes, one would be a fool to bet that the gentleman will make it.

Boyle's Column

SCHROON LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — Nearing 71, Ed Wynn, a gentleman of the show world for two generations, can still stand on the first step of a flight of stairs and bend down and touch the ground.

And his mind remains as flexible as his body and his marvellously mobile face.

Next month the American theater wing will pay tribute to "the perfect fool" in a 90-minute television show honoring his 55 years as an entertainer.

But Ed, a performer who has done everything in his fabulous career except be shot out of a cannon, is even more excited by his new rise to stardom (after many said he was through) as a dramatic actor. He plays Uncle Samson in "Marjorie Morningstar," a film now being shot here at Scaroon Manor, an Adirondacks resort hotel.

Natalie Wood and Gene Kelly are also starred, but Ed, once called "one of the nine most charming people in the world," is top favorite with the resort guests. They all call him by his first name and ask him to pose for snapshots with them.

During a rehearsal break Ed, clad in a pair of old slacks and a blue cotton shirt, sat in a deck chair in the warm sun and looked bored and after.

"People still come up and talk to me, even the kids, and I like that. I think that slovenly — or a swelled head, as we used to call it — is one of the greatest dangers to youngsters who achieve a quick success."

"The actor, if he wants to stay successful, has to marry the public and stay married. Getting to the top is one thing; staying at the pinnacle is the real difficulty."

"But many of the kids today feel they don't need help, and have nothing to learn."

"The great artists of the past often didn't have enough to eat. But they lived for posterity. Today there is too much reaching for the fast buck. A singer can make funny noises on a single record, and overnight he's a star. But he has nothing to fall back on."

"Commercialism has taken a wrong tangent in this country. What we need is to inherit from those who went before, and not simply regard them as corny. There are certain traditions we need in our lives to give us stability."

"Something has changed. People have changed. This looseness of thought... this breaking down of tradition has to be done away with quickly, if this nation is to hold true to the things that put it where it is."

"All of us have our best time when we don't realize it — in childhood."

"I've had my career, and I don't have to worry now. I made $400 a week when I was 16. I was the only American performer on the bill when the Palace, the Mecca of vaudeville, opened.

"I've turned out a hundred songs, and I wrote the book, music and lyrics for three of my 18 Broadway shows. But the greatest performer of my lifetime was George M. Cohan. He had versatility... and successful versatility... he could do anything."

"Why do I go on? Because I do love the theater. I'd rather drop dead on a stage before a laughing audience than die in bed with my relatives around me crying."

"My son, Keenan, tells everybody I've got a million dollars. I wonder what he will say when he finds out all I'm leaving him is a lot of old jokes?"

NUMBNESS OF HANDS DURING NIGHT IS COMMON, COMPLEX SYMPTOM

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Numbness of the hands at night is both a common complaint and a rather complicated symptom.

Q—I have had a great deal of trouble for the last several years with numbness of my hands when I wake up in the morning. Sometimes this is so uncomfortable that it wakes me from a sound sleep. What can be done for it?—L. T.

A—Probably the most common cause of this uncomfortable sensation is sleeping with the arms over the head. Apparently this habit results in pressure on some of the nerves in the arm pit or the blood vessels in that area and may be relieved by changing the position of sleeping. It may be necessary to fasten the arms to the lower part of the body in some loose fashion. But there are other varieties of numbness, some of which are limited to one side of the hand or the other, depending on which of two principal nerves appear to be pressed upon or otherwise irritated during sleep. Sometimes these nighttime sensations are the result of a disorder in the neck region resulting to pressure on some of the nerves passing down the arms. Some persons whose occupations demand repeated motions of the wrist for thrusting movements develop these symptoms and may be relieved by surgery of a certain ligament. It is often not a simple matter to make a diagnosis or to outline successful treatment.

Q—I am a teen-age girl and am much troubled by dark circles under my eyes. I rest plenty of sleep. How can I remedy this?—J. C.

A—it is believed that there are a number of people who have thin skin under their eyes and that therefore the blood vessels show through and create the appearance of dark circles. This is probably an inborn quality which is not amenable to treatment. I should think that appropriate cosmetics would be the answer.

Q—I have had peculiar recurring attacks which seem to be quite puzzling. First my eyes feel pinched together and uncomfortable and then my face. After this I begin to swell. Ice bags help but the swelling lasts some time and the last attack was the worst. Can you explain this?—Mrs. C. B. F.

A—This sounds like a problem with what is called giant hives, giant urticaria or angioneurotic edema. It is considered to be an allergic disorder, but it is often difficult to find the particular substance which brings on such an attack. It carries some hazards, particularly when it occurs around the face or neck, so that I should suggest that an allergy specialist be consulted to see if the cause can be found or, if not, what treatment you should take whenever you suffer an attack.

Q—is it possible to have a temperature of 108 and a pulse of 120 and still live?—Reader.

A—it is for a short time. Such temperatures have been recorded with subsequent recovery of the patient.

Claude Gustine is the new commander of the Jacksonville American Legion post.

50 YEARS AGO
E. A. Schoedsack, proprietor of the City Steam Dye Works on E. State street, was severely burned in an explosion this afternoon. The building and equipment were damaged considerably.

The Famous Gentry Shows will be in Jacksonville next Monday.

"For $4.00 you are sitting in the third row," came the reply. "That was a cancellation that just came in on the phone."

On a recent matinee afternoon, O'Brien (who had already seen the musical twice) got in the ticket line. Just as he reached the window, the boxoffice telephone rang. Pat waited patiently, then asked if he could buy a ticket for that performance.

"I realize there are not many opportunities for Oriental actresses in Hollywood," she remarked.

Milko is that Hollywood rarity—a natural. She had no previous acting experience, not even in school ("I was always too shy") but she was pronounced perfect for the role as Brando's sweetheart in James Michener's "Sayonara."

She got the job purely by chance.

"A year ago I was attending the annual Nisei Festival in Los Angeles," said Milko, who was born in Seattle and grew up there. "A friend of mine was out from Washington, D.C., and she wanted to go because she sees so few Orientals back there."

It happened that a Warner Bros. talent scout was prowling the festival for the "Sayonara" girl. The studio had looked for one in Japan, but couldn't find one who fit the part and could handle English.

The scout tabbed Milko as a possibility.

Her first reading of the role was hesitant, but she impressed the bigwig with her beauty and sincerity. When she read with Marlon Brando, she knew she did poorly.

"Then he took me into a room and told me to do the scene thinking of him as Marlon Brando," she recalled. "That seemed rather strange to me, but I tried it and it worked!"

She got the job. She gave up her post as an office worker in a travel agency for $60 a week and moved into a star's dressing room at Warners.

She's under contract to the studio, but no plans have been announced for her. Even if nothing else happens, she said, it's all been wonderful so far.

The World Today

BY JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's announcement that it has successfully tested an intercontinental missile means the Soviet Union is abreast or ahead of the United States in the race to develop that weapon.

This country is not revealing how close it is to achieving an operational ICBM. Beyond saying the program is going ahead under a high priority, American officials have kept details of that program a closely guarded secret.

An ICBM—a ballistic missile—is one fired from a base. Then, under its own fuel power, it speeds toward its target. A guided missile is one which is fired from a base but is guided electronically toward its target while in flight.

The ICBM is intended to travel 5,000 miles or more at an elevation of 400 or 500 miles and at a speed of 15,000 to 20,000 miles an hour. An ICBM fired from Moscow could hit Chicago in 25 or 30 minutes.

Then there is the intermediate range ballistic missile which can travel 1,500 miles. One of these, fired from Leningrad, could hit London in 10 or 15 minutes. It is not known whether the Russians have an ICBM.

This country has been developing two 5,000-mile ICBM missiles: the Atlas and the Titan. Work on the latter was started after work on the Atlas. The United States has never successfully fired an ICBM.

Earlier this summer, the Atlas was tested at Cape Canaveral, Fla., but it was a failure. It rose about 5,000 feet, turned, and fell back to earth.

This country has fired a device—that's the best name for it since it was not a full-fledged missile—almost 3,000 miles.

About two weeks ago the Army fired from the Florida base an IRBM, called the Jupiter, which reportedly reached an altitude of 600 miles, traveled about 1,200 miles, and reached a speed estimated at 15,000 miles an hour on its plunge back to earth. Another missile was fired from Cape Canaveral Wednesday, but military officials declined to say what type was tested.

And the Air Force has under production the Snark, a jet-powered, pilotless bomber considered capable of spanning the distance between the American continent and the Russian homeland.

This writer sought from people familiar with the missile program to learn how much this country has spent on missile development of all kinds since the end of World War II.

An estimate, which one informed source said was conservative, came to more than 25 billion dollars. This would be 12 times more than the two billion dollars spent in developing the atomic bomb during World War II.

Roughly, there are six types of missile programs:

The ICBM, the biggest and most important as a deterrent to war; the IRBM; air-to-air missiles (fired from planes at planes); air-to-surface missiles (fired from planes at earth targets); air-to-underwater missiles (fired from planes at targets on or beneath the surface of the sea); and surface-to-air missiles (fired from the ground at planes).

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"It has all been a dream. Even if nothing else happened in my career, I would be satisfied."

This is the realistic statement by Milko Taka, who suddenly found herself thrust from obscurity to the position of Marlon Brando's leading lady. And she faces the possibility of a return to obscurity with an Oriental calm.

"I realize there are not many opportunities for Oriental actresses in Hollywood," she remarked.

Milko is that Hollywood rarity—a natural. She had no previous acting experience, not even in school ("I was always too shy") but she was pronounced perfect for the role as Brando's sweetheart in James Michener's "Sayonara."

She got the job purely by chance.

Administration Will Drive

For Federal School Aid Bill

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The fight for federal aid for school construction will continue in spite of the defeat this proposal recently suffered in Congress.

This is the promise of U.S. Commissioner of Education Lawrence G. Dertwick. He will help to lead this fight at the side of President Eisenhower.

Federal aid to the states for the building of classrooms was the top item on Ike's legislative program. It was defeated in Congress because Ike failed to give the measure adequate personal support at the last, crucial minute, it has been charged.

Ike replied to this criticism saying that he had given full support to the type of federal aid he wanted Congress to provide. But he admitted that he couldn't work up too much steam for the bill which was finally defeated in the House.

THE WAS FOR a bill which would give school construction aid to states on the basis of need alone. The defeated bill had a provision which would also have given aid on the basis of school-age population. Ike did not like this, particularly because it broadened the base for federal grants.

Dertwick is going to use the start of this new school year to launch a continuing campaign for the Ike school construction formula. He's optimistic about eventual victory, because, he says, "there is an increasing interest by all the people in the problems of education and this interest will result in federal aid for the building of adequate classrooms."

Dertwick is relatively new in the country's top education post, coming from the superintendency of schools at Chattanooga, Tenn. He gained national prominence in the field of education by extensive speaking around the country to teacher groups.

IT'S THIS SPEAKING ability which he intends to throw behind the school-aid program. He explains:

"The arithmetic is simple. The most careful study which can be made reveals that there is a shortage of 150,000 classrooms in the U.S. Of that number 80,000 are needed to take care of children in school and 70,000 to replace those lost because of fire, flood or just old age."

"Last year the states built 62,000 new classrooms and it is believed that the rate will be about the same this year. This means that the classroom shortage is steadily being aggravated, which calls for some federal aid."

Grave as this situation is at the start of the new school year, he believes that the teacher shortage is a more serious problem. "The heart of schooling American youngsters is the instruction they get," he claims, referring to the quality and quantity of teachers.

He reports:

"BECAUSE OF INCREASED enrollments in public and non-public elementary and secondary schools, about 55,000 more teachers will be needed in 1957-58 than last year. As schools open this fall, there will be a shortage of about 135,000 qualified elementary and high school teachers, despite the fact that 81,400 men and women will enter the teaching profession for the first time. The shortage last year was about 120,700."

Dertwick has his staff at the U.S. Office of Education working on the formation of some long-range goals for the American school system.

"What they come up with might be a five-year plan for U.S. education," he says.

That would be a unique idea in education planning. It indicates the fresh approach which Dertwick has brought to this job. He still subscribes to the theory that "the federal government should exercise leadership but not domination, assistance but not interference."

But he obviously hopes to improve the quality of both the leadership and assistance which Uncle Sam will be providing to the American school system.

Interpreting The News

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst
The London disarmament conference may be on its last legs, but the propaganda war of which it is a manifestation is only getting a good start.
The Allies and Russia are now laying the background for what is expected to be a major debate in the forthcoming United Nations General Assembly.
With its working paper summing up all the Allied proposals, the United States has laid the foundation for a strong representation that Russia has always been insincere in its talk of peace and disarmament.
The Russians already have begun to appeal to public opinion over the heads of governments, using the threat of intercontinental warfare to emphasize the need for agreement—agreement on Russian terms.
These terms are for outlawry of atomic testing, an already popular issue, and atomic war—without the safeguards insisted upon by a world which has had long experience with Communist treachery.
The United States is massing evidence that the danger need not produce hysteria. She is giving the impression that she is still ahead of the Soviets in operational missile and missiles on the verge of being operational, and that she will not be behind in producing an operational Inter-Continental Missile.
That would somewhat alleviate Russia's current position of standing alone before Public opinion against proposals which represent serious concessions by the Allies.
That will be her real motive, although she will argue on the surface that the Allies have made unacceptable proposals to cloak preparations for war.
This propaganda battle is important in the efforts of both sides to prove to noncommitted nations which philosophy represents the best interests of all.

LITTLE WOMAN

Little girls seem to be "natural-born" little women, right from the start.

Laura washes for her dollies just as seriously as if she were tending a "real-life" family. She likes to bake tiny cakes and cookies too, and she has her own way of enforcing discipline when her dollies are "naughty."

Sometimes I'm amazed by her, even if I am her mother. And I am awed at the way God fashioned little girls, so that from the beginning they seem to sense that one day they will be mothers themselves.

When I take Laura to Church with me, she's such a little lady, demure and yet amazingly intent for one her age. I look at her. I see one of God's miracles, and I marvel anew. Watching a child grow is a perpetual lesson in Faith.

Sometimes after Church Laura lines her dolls up on a bench. She tells me that "the dollies are in church,"—and I don't feel in the least like chuckling at her childish antics. Rather, I am grateful.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

John Taapkins Celebrate Golden Anniversary

JERSEYVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. John V. Taapkins, well known Jerseyville couple, will mark their Golden Wedding anniversary, Aug. 31, and, in observance of the event, "Open House" will be held Sunday at the home of the honorees' granddaughter, Mrs. Robert Flynn, and Mr. Flynn at 1001 McClusky Road, Jerseyville. Friends and relatives are invited to call between the hours of two and four in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Taapkins were married August 31, 1907, at the Baptist church in Petersburg by the Rev. Henry Krueger officiating. The attendants for the couple were the bride's sister, Mrs. William Hovey, of Springfield, and the bridegroom's brother, Joseph Taapkins, of Petersburg.

At the time of their marriage Mr. Taapkins was agent for the Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis Railroad Company in the Petersburg station. The couple resided in Petersburg for six years and then moved to Loami when Mr. Taapkins was transferred by his company. Following four years' residence at Loami the couple came to Jerseyville where Mr. Taapkins served as agent at the local station until the company discontinued operations.

While employed at the railroad Mr. Taapkins learned the trade of interior decorator after hours and, after leaving the railroad, he followed that profession in Jerseyville until ill health forced his retirement two years ago.

Mrs. Taapkins was formerly Miss Ora Bates. She was born in Sterling, Kansas, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Asa Bates of that city. Her only sister is Mrs. William Hovey of Springfield.

Mr. Taapkins is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Taapkins and was born in Tallula, Ill. He has six brothers and sisters: Mrs. Anna Forden, Miss Edna Taapkins, Garrett, George and Joseph Taapkins, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Marie Noelch, of Virginia.

The couple's only child, Mrs. Lavetta Erdman and her husband, Omer Erdman, were killed in an automobile accident south of Jerseyville the evening of July 4, 1956. The Taapkins have two granddaughters, Mrs. Robert Flynn, of Jerseyville, and Mrs. James Cope, of Springfield, and two great grandchildren.

Pike County Cheese Company Wins First Prize

PITTSFIELD — Harvey W. Hurd, proprietor and manager of the Pike County Cheese Company, received official notice on Saturday that among the entries of commercial cheese manufacturers which placed in the various classes at the Illinois State Fair held at Springfield, the Pike County Cheese Company took first place and the blue ribbon in the mild cheddar cheese showing.

Mr. Hurd came to Pittsfield from Monroe, Wis., around 20 years ago, seeking a suitable area for a cheese factory and decided to locate here. He opened for business in a small building in the south part of town. Many were skeptical at the time as this county, chiefly a grain producing area, did not then have

THE CANVAS DAGGER by HELEN REILLY

THE STORY: Sarah Casement believes someone was in the studio of Grant Melville just before the artist fell four floors to his death. No one will believe Sarah and in order to prove to herself that she saw someone through the window, she volunteers to help the widow do Melville's biography. There are several applicants for the job.

IV
SARAH went through the indented door and closed it behind her. The room was a formal living room. The portrait of Melville hung over the mantel.

It was a self-portrait. The dead painter gazed out, palette in one hand, knife in the other. He was smiling a little. His lips, red lips, were slightly parted. It wasn't the man she had seen at the studio window, the man who had plunged to a terrible death. It was the beard that made the difference, a black beard trimmed to a point.

Three strikes and out—Miss Dolwin; Mr. Dennert, the man with the tired hat; and now Grant Melville himself—she had seen them all before, and not all together or in the same place. The reason she hadn't recognized Melville when she looked across at him from Zita's apartment that day was the beard, of course. It changed him completely.

The room was L-shaped. It went around a corner at the front. Beyond a wide, curtained arch was a library. The walls were lined with books. There was a large, handsome desk in the middle of the floor. A man was seated at the desk, working with a sheaf of papers. His back was toward her, a recognizable back with narrow, sloping shoulders.

It was Mr. Dennert, the man who had been dismissed with finality at least 20 minutes earlier.

Dennert finished with his task, which appeared to be the searching of the desk. He put the papers back in an open drawer, closed the drawer, pushed back the chair, got up—and saw Sarah. "Oh . . . ah . . . Good morning."

There was a door that led directly into the hall. Mr. Dennert started for it. Watching him move, Sarah remembered where she had seen him before.

"Wait," she said crisply. "You were outside this house on the day Mr. Melville was killed."

Dennert halted. He looked at her kindly. "My dear young lady, I—don't know what you mean. Outside this house?"

"You were outside this house," Sarah repeated, "shortly before Grant Melville died. You were down there near the corner waiting for someone or something. You kept walking to and fro, and looking at your watch."

Dennert smiled sadly. "You may be right. I don't know. I don't know when Mr. Melville died. You see, I live a short distance from here, on the wrong side of the tracks, the other side of Third, and I often walk about in this neighborhood."

IT let the air out of Sarah. She felt foolish. She said, "I'm sorry," and smiled. The smile appeared to dazzle Dennert. He started to say something, and stopped. His glance shifted. He looked past her. Sarah glanced over her shoulder. The man named Gillespie was just inside the door of the long room. When she turned back to speak to Mr. Dennert, Mr. Dennert was gone.

Two things struck Sarah, with force. One was that Gillespie might have heard her make what amounted to an accusation against Dennert—and the other was that Dennert himself, plausible as he had been, had made no explanation whatever of what he was doing at Melville's desk. Gillespie came strolling toward her. His dancing dark eyes were bright and intent. It was an aloof face, she thought, sophisticated and strong and intelligent, but aloof.

"Cigarette?" he offered a pack to her. She shook her head. He lit one leisurely and said through smoke, "It seems as though you and I are the pick of the field. Miss Dolwin's getting her dismissal now. How did you come to see that fellow Dennert outside this house on the day Melville died?"

So he had heard. His glance was penetrating. A thread of fear stirred in Sarah. "I had been visiting a friend who lives near here and was waiting for a cab. I had to wait a long time."

"On the corner of University and Tenth?"

"That's right."

"You evidently don't know the neighborhood very well. You should have gone over to Fifth. It's just a block and there are always plenty of cabs there. Were you down there in the street when Melville fell?"

SARAH reflected that Mr. Gillespie wanted to know rather a lot, and wasn't timid about asking, but under no circumstances could she call him a timid man.

"I saw the crowd, and heard what had happened," and put a question of her own, pleasantly. "Were you down there in the street that day? Did you see the accident?"

"Yes. I was down in the street."

Gillespie might have been the man in the studio. He looked as though he could kill, ruthlessly, if the motive was strong enough. "You live around here, Mr. Gillespie?"

Gillespie nodded absently. "I live at the Parliament."

The Parliament was a well-known and expensive hotel on lower Fifth Avenue. "You live at the Parliament and you answered Mrs. Melville's ad?" Her brows rose.

Fall Festival,
Carnival To Be Held In Pittsfield

PITTSFIELD — The Pittsfield fall festival sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and the annual Lion's Club carnival will furnish three days of entertainment with many special features this year on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 5, 6 and 7. All of the usual features and attractions will be included throughout the three days. Gene Hoover is chairman of arrangements for the festival and Clarence Marshall is in charge of arrangements for the Lion's carnival.

A street bazaar will be held on Thursday, with merchants displaying their wares on the street. The Queen contest and style show will be held at night. On Friday home arts will be registered during the morning, and in the afternoon the kiddie parade will be featured, with horse shoe pitching matches, the Beardtown quartette, fancy skating, dog acts and a window shopping contest.

On Saturday afternoon a parade of floats with cash prizes and at night hundreds of dollars in merchandise will be given away. The carnival will hold forth each night of the festival, and there will not be a dull moment during the three days.

New Patrol System
A new patrol system for the safety of school children of the city at dangerous crossings has been set up through the sponsorship of the P.T.A. and the co-operation of the city council, whereby the school boy patrol in use heretofore will be replaced by an adult women's patrol.

Mrs. Albert Schimmel, Jr., is chairman of the P.T.A. committee. Those who will serve as members of the patrol at the critical hours of opening and closing of school are: Mrs. Evelyn Lowe, Mrs. Jean Gates, and Mrs. Ruth Weill. They will receive one dollar an hour for their services from the city of Pittsfield.

Claude Wilson, chief of police and Donald Loyd, of the state highway department, will assist the women in getting established in their work as patrol women.

Senior Sister

MISS LINDA JACKSON

Selected to serve as a Senior Sister at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo., during the 1957-58 school year is Miss Linda Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ford K. Jackson of 1840 Mound Road.

Senior Sisters aid the new students in their orientation to campus life, sharing their previous experiences in group living. They reside in the residence halls which house the first year students and are available at all times for counseling and comradeship.

To qualify for this important campus post, a student must maintain a good grade average and have proven leadership abilities. Together with other campus officers, the Senior Sisters have been invited to return to the campus for a leadership conference, September 7-9, which precedes the arrival of all students on September 10.

Four Leave For Trip To Mexico

Four Jacksonville young men who will attend college this fall set out at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon to see Mexico in ten days.

They pointed their car toward Mexico City and took off with a hope that the ten years the car has already been in service will not weigh too heavily upon it during the trip.

The party consists of Ed Varble, Ron Kesinger, Bill McAllister, and Harvey Fitzsimmons. They have no particular itinerary but will see all of the neighboring republic that time will permit.

U.S. Walker Cup Team Wins Twice In Meet Opener

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Minneapolis, Minn. — Playing in the kind of miserable, wet weather usually associated with British golf, the U. S. Walker Cup Friday won two tough matches, halved one, and lost one in an unexpectedly close opening day of golf competition.

The Americans, slopping through a drenching rain on the sodden 6,550-yard Minikahada Course, drew away in the afternoon round toward what looked like a series of easy victories.

Then they saw the Britons come back to make every one of the four-somes matches close ones.

Thus the Americans carried only a 2-1 lead into the second day when eight singles matches will decide the 16th in a series of international tussles which began in 1922.

The foursomes, in which partners play alternate strokes with one ball, are regarded as the most difficult part of the competition for the Americans. They are not accustomed to that style of play and the unusual problems it presents, while the British play two ball-foursomes frequently.

Friday's results left the U. S. team in a strongly favored position. The Americans have won 14 of 15 previous Walker Cup matches and now need only an even break in the singles to rack up another victory.

Here is how the four some matches came out:

Rex Baxter, Amarillo, Tex., and Billy Joe Patton of Morgan town, N. C., just lasted to beat Ireland's Joe Carr, and Dr. Frank W. G. Deighton of Scotland 2 and 1 after leading by six holes at one stage.

Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and Dr. Frank (Bud) Taylor, Pomona, Calif., dentist, whipped Philip Scrutton and Alan Buswell, 4 and 3, with a belated spurt after a close morning round.

Reid Jack, British amateur champion from Scotland, and artisan golfer Douglas Sewell, who strings telegraph lines on British railways, scored the only point for Great Britain by beating Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga., and Chuck Kocis of Detroit, 1 up.

Hillman Robbins, Jr., Memphis and Mason Rudolph, Clarksville, Tenn., finished all square with Guy Wolstenholme, Oxford student and Alec Shepperson.

In Walker Cup competition, each victory is counted as one point while halves aren't played out and aren't included in the point scoring.

Patton was Coe's choice for the No. 1 spot in singles competition Friday. He will meet Jack in the opening match.

ROBINSON PUTS LAW BOOKS AWAY, BOXES 2 ROUNDS

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson stowed away his law books and donned the gloves again Friday in preparation for his now on - again middleweight title defense against Carmen Basilio Sept. 23.

Robinson boxed two rounds in his first workout at his training camp since Aug. 18. He gave sparring partner Lee Williams a good going over in both rounds. Robinson worked out occasionally at a New York gym while he settled his contract complaints with the International Boxing Club.

K-State Coach Lashes Out At Missouri Mentor

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Football Coach Bus Mertes of Kansas State said Friday he thought Missouri Coach Frank Broyles "is getting the cart before the horse if he thinks he can keep other schools from recruiting in Missouri."

He referred to a story from Columbia, Mo., which said K-State coaches have made a determined effort to lure a star Columbia High School athlete, William Richardson. The youth reportedly decided not to negotiate with K-State and will enroll at Missouri.

The Columbia Tribune reported the Richardson case. Thursday the newspaper disclosed Iowa State had sought to enroll two Missouri high school students, one of whom had previously accepted an athletic scholarship at Missouri.

The out-of-state recruiting activity prompted Broyles to renew his suggestion that the Big Eight Conference adopt a letter of intent policy on prospects.

Mertes admitted he offered Richardson train fare from his home to Manhattan, Mo., but that he did so only after the boy had expressed an interest in attending K-State.

Mertes said K-State has not broken any rules.

Iowa State last weekend flew two prize high school football players from Jefferson City, Mo., to Ames, Iowa.

They were halfback Don Webb and teammate Mel West, a fullback. Webb said Friday that he was "seriously considering accepting" Iowa's offer. Webb was not sought by Missouri because of poor grades but had thoughts of enrolling anyway. West indicated he was undecided.

"I'm not upset about Iowa State coming down here," Broyles said. "That's their prerogative. But I am concerned about my coaches having to work now to make sure that kids who said they were coming to Missouri are coming to Missouri."

Several months ago Broyles, Missouri's new coach, put forth his letter of intent policy for the conference.

The policy, similar to one used in the Southeastern and Southwest conferences, would prevent a school from approaching a prospect who has signed his intention of accepting a scholarship at another conference school.

In Kansas City, Reeves Peters, Big Eight commissioner, said he favored the plan Broyles spoke of and said it would be discussed Oct. 2-3 at a conference meeting in Kansas City.

Drysdale Gains Shutout, Dodgers Beat Giants, 10-0

BROOKLYN (AP) — Don Drysdale, backed up by three home runs, permitted only three singles and retired the last 13 men in order while gaining his 14th victory and fourth shutout Friday night as the Brooklyn Dodgers battered New York's Giants 10-0.

Drysdale, a 21-year-old right-hander, has lost seven.

The Brooks hammered Giant ace Ruben Gomez for three runs in the third, on Charlie Neal's homer, chasing the right-hander with three more in the fourth, then tagging reliever Ray Monzant for another three in the fifth.

Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo also homered.

Hot Rod Driver Critically Burned In Drag Races

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A hot rod racer suddenly burst into flames at 100 miles an hour Friday and critically burned his driver, Graden Miller, 24, Oklahoma City.

The accident marred the opening time trials in the National Championship Drag Races sponsored by the National Hotrod Assn.

The mishap came in full view of 3,500 spectators. Hospital attendants said Miller suffered first and second degree burns over most of his body.

Miller slowed his car after it became engulfed in flames 20 yards from the finish line and jumped onto the asphalt strip. Track attendants extinguished the fire which blazed from his clothing.

The car careened another 750 yards before it overturned and was destroyed by the fire.

Sports Trail

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP) — The sports world seems to be taking the old Army quip of "hurry up and wait" too seriously these days.

Los Angeles and Brooklyn are waiting for Walter O'Malley to make up his mind whether to move the Dodgers to the West Coast or remain in this area.

The International Boxing Club and Carmen Basilio have been waiting for Ray Robinson to make up his mind on the TV angles of his title bout with Basilio scheduled for Sept. 23. As of now, Robinson has agreed to go through with the affair.

Skeptical fans are waiting for the Milwaukee Braves to show proof of a genuine attraction.

Football addicts throughout the country are waiting for the first games which will tell whether their particular teams are going to be something special or it will be just a character building season.

And practically everyone is waiting for the next pay day.

The Ray Robinson waiting game has been particularly intriguing, as the Sugar Kid, who seemed to want only a duplicate key to a U. S. mint to defend his middleweight title against the welterweight champion, could have outsmarted himself this time instead of outsmarting his opponents, as he so often does in the ring.

How much the difficulties over the TV arrangements have set back Sugar Ray in his training program only he knows, but if they haven't disturbed him in the least all this business about a fighter in training needing a serene mind and an uninterrupted schedule is the bunk.

Basilio, as the challenger, is getting the short end of the deal in all financial arrangements for the bout, but he hasn't squawked.

As a challenger he can expect that, and also, he really thinks he can win. Robinson and once he has done that he will be in the driver's seat and will have something to say about terms in future appearances.

Indians Edge Tigers, 6-5, In 10 Innings

CLEVELAND (AP) — Four errors by the Cleveland infield ruined a superb pitching performance by Cal McLish Friday night, but they managed to defeat the Detroit Tigers 6-5 in 10 innings anyway.

The victory moved the Tribe within half a game of the fourth-place Tigers.

The Indians came up with two runs in the last of the 10th, with Al Smith doubling in the winning tally with two out.

The rally took the sting out of the shoddy fielding which almost caused a heartbreaker loss for McLish, who had a one hitter and a 4-2 lead with two out in the ninth and nobody on.

Williams Heads Mantle In Batting By Only One Point

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Williams had his American League batting lead shaved to a single point Friday night. The Boston Red Sox' outfielder had one hit in five times at bat against Baltimore and his average dipped two points to .377.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees collected three hits in four trips in an afternoon game against Washington and his mark jumped three points to .376.

One of Mantle's safeties was a homer, enabling him to break a deadlock with Williams and the Senators' Roy Sievers. Mantle leads with 34 home runs to 33 for his closest pursuers.

Ralph Dupas Scores Unanimous Decision Over Johnny Busso

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Ralph Dupas of New Orleans scored a unanimous decision over Johnny Busso of New York Friday night in a 10-round fight before 2,105 paying spectators at the Miami Beach Auditorium.

Both judges and referee Billy Regan gave the edge to the New Orleans lightweight, who had a shade the better on the infighting.

Busso, slight underdog at fight time, rallied in the late rounds in the opinion of many ringsiders.

Dupas is engaged in a court fight in New Orleans to obtain a white birth certificate.

Braves Score Easy 9-5 Win Over Redlegs, Protect 7 Game Lead

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves continued their mastery over Cincinnati Friday night as four home runs powered them to a 9-5 victory over the Redlegs.

The victory protected Milwaukee's seven game lead in the National League and gave the Braves a 15-2 margin over Cincinnati for the season.

Ed Mathews, Carl Sawatski, Frank Torre and Wes Covington got the homers for the Braves with three of them coming in the first three innings.

About the only satisfaction the Reds got was that they belted Warren Spahn out of the box after though he received credit for the victory.

The Reds had the bases full in the ninth when the game ended. They had scored a run on four walks as the Braves used three pitchers in that one inning.

Spahn matched Philadelphia rookie Jack Sanford, who also won Friday night, for the league lead with 17 victories, however, claiming the 220th of his 13-year career.

The Braves wasted little time picking on Bud Podbielan, first Redleg pitcher. Red Schoendienst's single and Mathews' home run gave them two runs in the opening inning. Sawatski got his homer in the second after two were out.

White Sox Drop 3-1 Count To Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, throttled by Alex Kellner's six-hit pitching, dropped a 3-1 decision to the Kansas City Athletics Friday night and lost an opportunity to gain a game on the league leading New York Yankees.

New York lost an afternoon game to Washington but the White Sox fumbled their chance and still trail the Yankees by six and a half games with 27 to play.

Kellner lost a shutout in the fourth when he hit Sherm Lollar with a pitch. A single by Larry Doby and a sacrifice fly by Walt Droppo scored Lollar.

The Sox scored twice off Bob Keegan, who pitched the entire game for Chicago in the third inning. A base on balls to Hal Smith, Vic Power's double and a single by Gus Zernial plated the runs.

New Bedford Hurler Gains 1-0 Decision

NEW BEDFORD, Ill. (AP) — Jim Boender hurled New Bedford, Ill., to a one-hit, 1-0, victory Friday night over Dinuba, Calif., in the International Softball League World Tournament while Dayton, Ohio, ousted Midland, Tex., 2-0, in the double elimination playoff.

New Bedford scored its lone run in the fourth inning on a triple by Boots Boostrom and Charley Toppert's double.

Dayton dropped Midland from the tourney on Paul Johnson's four hitter although the losing pitcher, N. E. Stephens, allowed only two hits.

Ernie Powell walked in the sixth and was sacrificed to second. Jack Southern doubled, went to third on a passed ball and scored Dayton's final run on an infield out.

Williams Keeps Batting Lead, Bosox Win, 8-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ted Williams got an infield single his last time up Friday night to hold the American League batting leadership by a fraction while his Boston Red Sox were whipping the Baltimore Orioles 8-1.

The scorekeeper single by Williams on his 39th birthday after four fruitless times at bat gave him a batting of .3768. Mickey Mantle of New York, who started the day trailing by six points, pulled up to .3764 with three for four this afternoon and took the home run leadership with 34.

Williams' bat wasn't really needed for anything other than his individual statistics. Bob Porterfield, starting only his eighth game of the season, didn't allow the Orioles a run until the last inning.

Three Players Tied For Lead In Insurance Open

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Gardner Dickinson of Panama City, Fla., and two Massachusetts golfers, Ed Whalley, Jr., of Salem, and Bob Crowley of Weston, shot 5-under par 66s Friday to tie for the lead in the opening round of the 72-hole $22,000 Insurance City Open tournament.

Dickinson and Whalley came through the morning's mist and rain to post identical 33-33 scores on the par 35-36-71 layout. Crowley, a late finisher over the Wethersfield Country Club's exacting 6,524-yard course, played under somewhat better conditions. He shot 32-34.

Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., last year's winner, was one stroke off the pace, along with George Bayer of Los Angeles, and Bill Navy of Tucson, Ariz.

At least a dozen other name professionals were in serious challenging positions. Among them were Master's champion Doug Ford, of Mahopac, N. Y., with a 69.

Cubs Set New Strikeout Record For NL In 2-1 Defeat To Cardinals

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs set a National League season record for strikeouts Friday in losing a 2-1 pitchers' duel to Vinegar Bend Mizell and the St. Louis Cardinals. Mizell fanned 11 Cubs, raising their total to 812 for the year.

The old record was 806, set by the Cubs in 1955.

The major league record of 877 was established last season by the Washington Senators.

Mizell gave up eight hits, four of them by Jim Bolger. Moe Drabowsky, Cubs' bonus righthander, struck out nine while giving up seven hits.

The Cards broke a scoreless duel in the seventh when Don Blasingame walked, went to third on a single by Joe Cunningham and batted in the winning run.

The Cubs bounced back to tie it in their half on singles by Jim Bolger, Cal Neeman and Bobby Morgan.

Moon singled to open the ninth. He was sacrificed to second, stopped at third on a single by Alvin Dark, and scored on Del Ennis' sacrifice fly.

RED SOX LEARN LEPCIO SUFFERS BROKEN WRIST

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox learned Friday infielder Ted Lepcio had suffered a broken wrist and promptly recalled Ken Aspromonte from the San Francisco Seals.

Aspromonte, who has been playing second base, is the leading batter in the Pacific Coast League. Through Aug. 20 his average was .331.

Lepcio, who was hit by a pitch, is the second Boston player this week to suffer a broken wrist.

The first baseman Norm Zauchin suffered the same injury earlier in the week.

TOOTHY EXHIBIT
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — As the jurors deliberated over "Exhibit A" in the jury room, Thomas Estes of Minneapolis fidgeted in the courtroom. "Exhibit A" was his upper partial plate.

Estes was plaintiff in a $3,000 damage suit against a drug chain. He claimed he broke a tooth on a rusty metal screw embedded in a candy bar he bought at one of the chain's stores. He got his upper plate back, but lost the suit.

CAMERA MAGIC—Mrs. Jack Heest of Hamburg, Germany, demonstrates how to tell a "tall story" as she reaches over to place a bouquet in a modernistic "flower vase." The "vase" is actually a 150-foot water tower under construction in the distance.

Chickens Come Home To Roost After 10 Days

Ted Staake, residing one mile north of Chapin, visited the sheriff's office Friday morning and reported that 40 of the 43 Golden Neck chickens stolen at his farm 10 days ago are back home.

The thief who raided the chicken roost during absence of the Staake family is believed to have decided the distinctive marking of the Golden Necks might be a giveaway. So the chickens were returned.

Mr. Staake said they apparently were released from a car near his home. He "shooed" the Golden Necks back into the same yard from which they had been taken more than one week previously.

THREE ACRES ON THE MOVE—The largest tow ever transported on the Tennessee River is pictured on Pickwick Lake, about 215 miles from its starting point, Paducah, Ky. The tow of 24 barges, loaded with grain, scrap iron and steel is en route from Paducah to Knoxville, Tenn. The 24 barges, in a formation 100 feet wide, cover an area of approximately 126,000 square feet or almost three acres. The tow is being pushed by a diesel tow boat, the Robin. (In river parlance, a tow is a formation of barges pushed, not pulled, by a tow boat). The 3,200 horsepower Robin is the most powerful boat on the Tennessee River. A big tow such as this is not unusual for the Mississippi River, but for the Tennessee it is an all-time record.

Norstad: NATO Outranks Russia In Air Power

PARIS, (AP)—Gen. Lauris Norstad assured the West Friday it still has the strategic advantage despite Soviet Russia's claim of firing an intercontinental missile. The Allied supreme commander in Europe issued his statement, apparently to reassure the United States' NATO allies, as reports from Washington said the Soviets had tested not one but at least four such missiles.

"I have no reason to doubt that the U. S. S. R. has tested a ballistic missile," Norstad's statement said. "However, an operational weapon for the range contemplated must still be a long way off."

"Meanwhile, the advantage rests, and will continue to rest, incontrovertibly with the NATO powers because of their clear superiority in manned aircraft."

"Meanwhile, too, the West is successfully bringing along long-range ballistic missiles for its arsenal."

NATO plans, he continued, for some time had taken into account the probability that Soviet science "by reason of its enormous efforts in the same field, would achieve at least some preliminary success."

In connection with the accuracy of such weapons, he said he was interested "in the studied vagueness" of the Soviet announcement.

He pointed out that Russia made similar threats two years ago to prevent West Germany's entry into NATO, and last fall during the Suez crisis had raised the threat of rocket attack.

"On both occasions the alliance was unshaken, even unperturbed," he commented. "So it will be now."

GARDENER CARES FOR LILIES TEN YEARS TO GET BLOOMS
WALKERVILLE, Mich. (AP)—Not many gardeners would wait 10 years before seeing any results from their labors. Julia Hager, a schoolteacher, is an exception.

Miss Hager not only waited a full decade for the first blooms from her exotic Syrian lilies, but she has continued to nurse them for 30 more years.

In 1917 Miss Hager was given a number of lily bulbs by a missionary just back from Syria. It takes 10 years for the first stalks and pale pink flowers to appear. Most of the several bulbs Miss Hager has raised contain from four to seven of these fragile blooms. The oldest of the plants this year bears 14 separate blossoms.

'Gratitude' Vandals Destroy Safety Posters

During the past two days members of the Jacksonville police department tied 75 safety posters to poles in prominent locations, in advance of the reopening of the schools.

Today their work in the interest of safety for boys and girls was half undone — by unknown hands.

Nearly half of the posters were ripped from their moorings Thursday night. A sharp knife apparently was used to do the dirty work.

"Talk about vandalism," Chief Ike Flynn said disgustedly Friday, "this is one of the loudest pieces of devilment I have ever seen."

"Our men spent several hours putting up the signs for the protection of the public. All we hope is that we can find out who is responsible for this job."

Chief Flynn said he and other members of the department would consider it an act of great public service if anyone with knowledge of the vandals would communicate with the police department, either by phone or in person.

"School's Open — Drive Carefully," was the message on the signs. Some of the signs remained up today, but those which had been mutilated were of no value in keeping the need for safe driving before the public.

Police said a charge of destruction of property would be filed if arrests are made.

Many Want To Adopt 7 Children Parents Deserted

CLINTON, Iowa (AP)—Inquiries were pouring into Municipal Court here Friday regarding possible adoption of seven children who were left by their parents in a Dewitt, Iowa, motel a week ago.

Meanwhile, Francis John Smith, 53, and his bride of four days, May Jean Schaefer Smith, 27, remained in jail in lieu of $1,500 bond each.

They had been scheduled for arraignment Friday on charges of child neglect but it was deferred until Saturday because the attorney they had retained was unable to represent them until then.

The couple was arrested Tuesday in Keokuk, Iowa, a few hours after being married in Hakola, Mo.

They had been sought since they drove away from a Dewitt motel the previous Friday leaving Smith's six children by a previous marriage and Mrs. Smith's 2-year-old son. The children said the couple told them they were "going for a ride."

Authorities said the children, ranging in age from 2 to 12 years, were left with no food and only $1.30 in cash.
